ROBB LA MONTAGNE
Director of Development
Hunt Southwest Real Estate Development, LLC

Robb La Montagne is the director of development for Hunt Southwest, a Dallas-based real estate company with development expertise in industrial, office, multifamily, commercial, seniors housing and residential communities. Robb is responsible for overseeing the company's development activities with a focus on entitlement, design, and construction management activities as HSW continues to grow its Texas real estate footprint.

Robb has over 15 years of experience in architectural and interior design, construction management, and construction cost consulting within a broad range of industries. During his career, Robb has managed all phases of development including due diligence, design, and construction.

Prior to joining Hunt Southwest, Robb served as vice president of construction for Black Creek Group and oversaw all of their capital deployment, construction, and development activities in the central region of the United States. Prior to Black Creek Group, Robb served as the vice president of development and construction at Sealy & Company, a boutique real estate firm; he spent almost four years in KPMG's tax department analyzing real estate and fixed assets; and he worked with two large architectural firms in the Dallas area, Corgan Associates and Architectural Group International.

Robb graduated from Texas Christian University with a B.S. in design and business. He and his family reside in Dallas.
